GRANTS

I am Co-Principal Investigator on a grant of £198,674 from the Nuffield Foundation in London. My partners on this grant are Bryson-Purdon Research in London, and academics from the University of Birmingham and the University of Cambridge. The grant will pay for this research team to devise a research program to be administered in England by the National Centre for Social Research, which will conduct face to face interviews with 3300 British subjects. The research program will replicate in England many of the studies that I have conducted in the United States with Sandy Braver and Robert MacCoun. The grant runs for three years beginning in November of 2011.
